Refworks RIS files: Troubleshooting for evidence searches

The native databases had problems linking to full text journal articles. HEE resolved this by adding integrated LibKey Links in the EBSCO, OVID and Proquest provider databases.

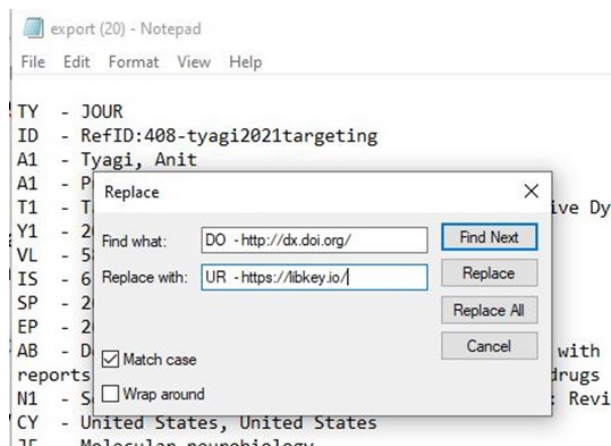

However, in Refworks this solution has presented an additional problem; if two links are present in the database record, Refworks is concatenating (combining) them into a single field:

<https://libkey.io/https://doi.org/10.1007/s12035-021-02283-3>

This causes a problem with the display of full text articles in the KnowledgeShare report download and RefWorks 'Create Bibliography'.

While fixes are being worked on, using the Notepad Edit>Replace function to edit RIS files can address issues in the KnowledgeShare download.

To create a direct LibKey link in a RefWorks RIS file, replace the DO - tag and stem of the doi link with UR - <https://libkey.io/> [see right]

The stem of the doi link depends of the source of the articles in the RefWorks RIS file, so select as appropriate:

Source of RefWorks file:	Find what:	Replace
OVID	DO - http://dx.doi.org/	UR - https://libkey.io/
ProQuest	DO - https://doi.org/	UR - https://libkey.io/
Ebsco	DO -	UR - https://libkey.io/

Category Q&A

How do I categorise an Operating Department Practitioner?

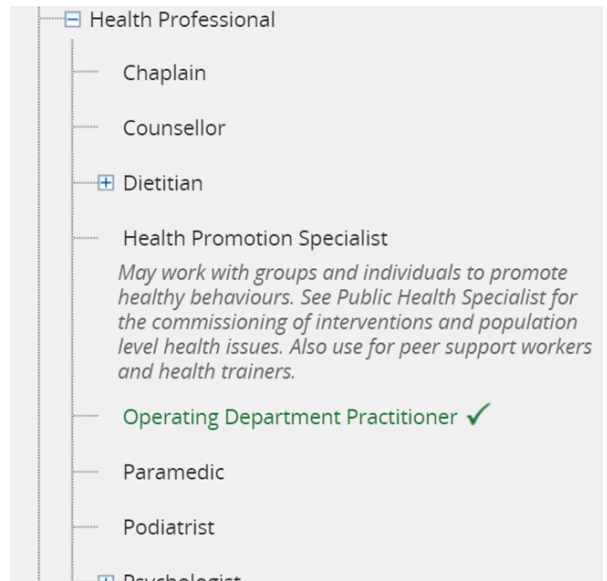

There is a new category of Operating Department Practitioner under the staff group Health Professional.

ODPs were previously captured with the 'Nurse' category and we've made this change to reflect the separate regulatory bodies and training routes. This will improve the targeting of relevant professional and educational resources.

Use 'Perioperative Setting' in combination with this staff group, as well as with other members interested in surgery, theatres or the surgical care pathway.

If you have ODP members categorised with 'Nurse', you may wish to update their categories. We will contact LKS admins with a list of your members who have the job role 'ACS ODP' in their KnowledgeShare record, to help with this process.

"[KnowledgeShare] directs people to the relevant areas they need to be aware of. These days there are journals, CPD opportunities and publications, and sometimes you can get lost as to what is the most relevant. If you have something like this for all clinicians it focuses on the most relevant areas for clinical practice."
