KnowledgeShare team news

Our Assistant Librarian Ellie Brown is heading off on maternity leave this month. Ellie joined us earlier this year and will already be well known to many of you from all her helpful responses to your emails! We'll miss her very much, but we're happy to report that her role will be covered by William Rees until January 2025. More about William:

Hi, I'm William; I am providing maternity cover for the Assistant Librarian (Knowledge Management) position, as part of the KnowledgeShare team.

Before joining UHSussex, I was a Library Assistant with Somerset NHS Foundation Trust, so this is my first professional library role and I am excited to be joining such a dynamic team and such a major project as KnowledgeShare, with which I am very familiar from my previous role.

Outside work, I am studying part time for an MA in Library and Information Management at Aberystwyth University. That, along with wedding planning, takes up a lot of my time, but my hobbies include singing, reading, exercise, cooking, and language learning: currently German, as my fiancée is German.

I'm looking forward to being part of the team and please contact me if you have any questions or need anything.

All the best to Ellie and welcome William!

“When I started literature searching I used to email myself results from Ovid etc. and then try and make the results look presentable in Word. I started using KS to collate my search results about six months ago, it literally saves me hours each week and the results look so professional.”
