New content for evidence update emails and bulletins

Thanks to additional funding provided by NHS England Workforce, Training & Education, we are now able to include the following extra sources in evidence updates:

Journals
- British Journal of Clinical Pharmacology
- BJGP Open
- BMJ Open (reviews only)
- Health & Social Care in the Community
- Journal of Epidemiology and Community Health
- Nurse Education Today
- Public Health

Organisations
- Academy of Fab Stuff
- AHSN case studies
- Local Government Association
- NHS Race and Health Observatory
- The Runnymede Trust

For more information about these resources, or any of the content we categorise, please email uhsussex.knowledgeshare@nhs.net.

Meet Ellie Brown

Hello! I am Ellie, the new Assistant Librarian in the KnowledgeShare team.

Prior to this role, I worked as a legal librarian in the Scottish Government law library, and before that, I worked at the University of Edinburgh in different information professional roles, so I am excited to be moving into a whole new area of special librarianship!

Outside of work, you can mostly find me spending time with my loved ones (one of the main reasons for us relocating South!), reading a good book, or swimming in the sea.
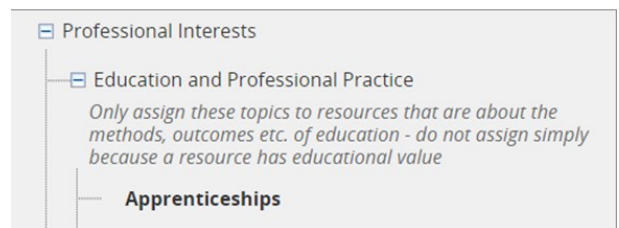

Really looking forward to working with you all.

New category for members — Apprenticeships

Apprenticeships increasingly offer routes into many NHS careers.

To categorise members with an interest in these qualifications and their impact on services, the topic can now be selected in the Professional Interests area of KnowledgeShare, under Education and Professional Practice.

☐ Professional Interests
   ☐ Education and Professional Practice
      Only assign these topics to resources that are about the methods, outcomes etc. of education - do not assign simply because a resource has educational value
      Apprenticeships

"Without KnowledgeShare in our trust, evidence searches and current awareness were taking so much time to produce. It has been an utter pain without it.

We are now happy that having KS in our trust will allow librarians to get away from their desks into clinical settings, and save valuable time for ourselves and clinicians"
